TABLE II

An account of the number of prisoners in the gaols and prisons of Ireland at the times they were visited in 1787 and 1788.

In this table I have omitted mentioning those prisons in which, at the times of my visiting in those two years, there were no persons confined.

N.B. Where ciphers are opposite a name, it signifies that the prison was not visited that year.

I have visited all the county gaols, and almost all the other prisons; yet, as there are some few of the town prisons which I did not see, if we add twenty to the number of prisoners, we shall probably have nearly the average number of persons confined at one time in the prisons in Ireland, viz.: Debtors, 550; Criminals, 1004; Supposed omitted, 20; Total, 1574.

N.B. Where I have visited twice, viz., in 1787 and 1788, I have taken, in this estimate, the last number.

TABLE III

An account of the number of prisoners in the gaols and prisons of England and Wales at the last time they were visited in 1787 or 1788.

As some county gaols are also the county bridewells, where petty offenders are not always separated from felons, in those places I sometimes include petty offenders under the heading felons, etc.—In this table I have omitted mentioning all those prisons in which, at the times of my visiting in these two years, there were no persons confined.
